

Client Rights During the APS Process

The West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources, Adult Protective Services is mandated by the State Code of West Virginia §9-6-2 to conduct an investigation when a report of adult abuse, neglect or financial exploitation is received. When you are involved in an Adult Protective Services (APS) investigation or a case is open for APS services, there are certain rights you need to know about.

Some of those rights include:

- The right to object to someone coming into your home without your permission to conduct an investigation. If you refuse a face to face interview, law enforcement will be contacted for assistance and court intervention may be necessary to complete the investigation.
- The right to have certain information about you that APS has in their records kept private and confidential.
- The right to discuss the situation with the Adult Services Supervisor if you have concerns with the manner in which the investigation was conducted.
- The right to refuse APS services, unless deemed incompetent by a court of law, and the right to know what may happen if you refuse; however, the APS worker is mandated by WV Code to conduct the investigation.
- The right to have a decision made about you, free from discrimination because of your age, race, color, sex, mental or physical disability, religious creed, national origin or political beliefs.
- You may have the right to request certain help for you if you have disabilities as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act, when they are needed to help you with any hearing, vision or speech impairments during the APS process.
- The right to know if there will be an open Adult Protective Services case.

Please keep this list in a safe place where you can find it. If you have any questions in regard to your rights, you may contact your worker or the Adult Services Supervisor. They are available to clarify any questions about your rights.

Worker's Name/Telephone Number: _____

Supervisor's Name/Telephone Number: _____

Date: _____

Client Rights During the APS Process

The West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources, Adult Protective Services is mandated by the State Code of West Virginia §9-6-2 to conduct an investigation when a report of adult abuse, neglect or financial exploitation is received. When you are involved in an Adult Protective Services (APS) investigation or a case is open for APS services, there are certain rights you need to know about.

Some of those rights include:

- The right to object to someone coming into your home without your permission to conduct an investigation. If you refuse a face to face interview, law enforcement will be contacted for assistance and court intervention may be necessary to complete the investigation.
- The right to have certain information about you that APS has in their records kept private and confidential.
- The right to discuss the situation with the Adult Services Supervisor if you have concerns with the manner in which the investigation was conducted.
- The right to refuse APS services, unless deemed incompetent by a court of law, and the right to know what may happen if you refuse; however, the APS worker is mandated by WV Code to conduct the investigation.
- The right to have a decision made about you, free from discrimination because of your age, race, color, sex, mental or physical disability, religious creed, national origin or political beliefs.
- You may have the right to request certain help for you if you have disabilities as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act, when they are needed to help you with any hearing, vision or speech impairments during the APS process.

- The right to know if there will be an open Adult Protective Services case.

Please keep this list in a safe place where you can find it. If you have any questions in regard to your rights, you may contact your worker or the Adult Services Supervisor. They are available to clarify any questions about your rights.

Worker's Name/Telephone Number

Supervisor's Name/Telephone Number

Date: _____

Alleged Perpetrator's Rights During the APS Process

The West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources, Adult Protective Services is mandated by the State Code of West Virginia §9-6-2 to conduct an investigation when a report of adult abuse, neglect or financial exploitation is received. When you are involved in an Adult Protective Services (APS) investigation, there are certain rights you need to know about.

Some of those rights include:

- The right to object to someone coming into your home without your permission to conduct an investigation.
- The right to have certain information about you that APS has in their records kept private and confidential.
- The right to discuss the situation with the Adult Services Supervisor if you have concerns with the manner in which the investigation was conducted.
- The right to file a grievance if you disagree with a substantiated allegation.
- The right to have fair and reasonable decisions made about you, free from discrimination because of your age, race, color, sex, mental or physical disability, religious creed, national origin or political beliefs.
- You have the right to request certain help for you if you have disabilities as defined by the Americans with disabilities Act, when they are needed to help you with any hearing, vision or speech impairments during the APS process.
- The right to know if the allegations against you as an alleged perpetrator were substantiated, if you provide the Department of Health and Human Resources with a complete mailing address.

Please keep this list in a safe place where you can find it. If you have any questions in regard to your rights, you may contact your worker or the Adult Services Supervisor. They are available to clarify any questions about your rights.

Worker's Name/Telephone Number: _____

Supervisor's Name/Telephone Number: _____

Date: _____

Alleged Perpetrator's Rights During the APS Process

The West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources, Adult Protective Services is mandated by the State Code of West Virginia §9-6-2 to conduct an investigation when a report of adult abuse, neglect or financial exploitation is received. When you are involved in an Adult Protective Services (APS) investigation, there are certain rights you need to know about.

Some of those rights include:

- The right to object to someone coming into your home without your permission to conduct an investigation.
- The right to have certain information about you that APS has in their records kept private and confidential.
- The right to discuss the situation with the Adult Services Supervisor if you have concerns with the manner in which the investigation was conducted.
- The right to file a grievance if you disagree with a substantiated allegation.
- The right to have fair and reasonable decisions made about you, free from discrimination because of your age, race, color, sex, mental or physical disability, religious creed, national origin or political beliefs.
- You have the right to request certain help for you if you have disabilities as defined by the Americans with disabilities Act, when they are needed to help you with any hearing, vision or speech impairments during the APS process.
- The right to know if the allegations against you as an alleged perpetrator were substantiated, if you provide the Department of Health and Human Resources with a complete mailing address.

Please keep this list in a safe place where you can find it. If you have any questions in regard to your rights, you may contact your worker or the Adult Services Supervisor. They are available to clarify any questions about your rights.

Worker's Name/Telephone Number

Supervisor's Name/Telephone Number

Date: _____