Medicaid Waiver Programs

The Bureau for Medical Services has four Waiver Programs:

The Aged and Disabled Waiver (ADW) is for people age 18 or older who meet the medical criteria of receiving nursing home care and who meet financial requirements.

The Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities Waiver (IDDW) is for individuals who have intellectual disabilities and/or developmental disabilities who would otherwise be institutionalized.

The Children with Serious Emotional Disturbance Waiver (CSEDW) provides support to children with severe serious emotional disturbances by helping to keep them with their families, in the home and with a support network while receiving the services they need to improve their outcomes.

Electronic Visit Verification (EVV)

What is EVV?

On December 13, 2016, the 21st Century Cures Act (Cures Act) was enacted into law. The Cures Act is designed to improve the quality of care provided to individuals through further research, enhanced quality control and strengthened mental health parity. An EVV system is a telephone and computer-based system that electronically verifies service visits occur and documents the precise time service begins and ends. EVV applies to services rendered in the home under Activities of Daily Living (ADL), Instrumental Activities of Daily Living (IADL) and home health skills. Currently, federally required implementation dates vary depending on the type of service being provided: Personal Care Services (PCS) deadline is January 1, 2020 and Home Health Care Services (HHCS) is January 1, 2023.
