How will the Board operate?

The initial members appointed by the Governor have terms of four years. The Commissioner may initially stagger the terms for other appointees to be for periods of one, two, three or four years so that terms of all the members do not end at the same time. The Commissioner of the Bureau for Public Health serves as chair of the Board. A quorum, for purposes of organizing, conducting business and fulfilling Board duties, is constituted as a majority of the Board members in attendance. A member who fails to attend three consecutive meetings shall be deemed vacant unless excused by the Commissioner for good cause. Board meetings may be attended electronically by board members.

Are Board members compensated for their time?

Members are will not receive compensation, but will receive reasonable reimbursement for travel, hotel and other necessary expenses incurred in the performance of the duties of the member in accordance with state rules.

What happens to the recommendations and final report prepared by the Board?

After receiving the report of the Board, at the discretion of the Commissioner, the Bureau for Public Health may incorporate the recommendations into proposed legislative rules for consideration by the West Virginia Legislature. The Commissioner is required to issue notice in the State Register within twelve months of receiving the Board's report. The notice will include recommendations of the Board and state the specific reasons for the Commissioner's decisions on each of the Board's recommendations.
