

Rachel Gill is a Rehabilitation Services Manager, supervising the West Virginia Division of Rehabilitation Services' Blind and Deaf programs in the Sensory Specialty Programs unit. Rachel is a Certified Rehabilitation Counselor (CRC) and has previously worked as a Branch Office Manager, Rehabilitation Counselor for the Deaf, School Counselor and Workers' Compensation Specialist in Private Rehabilitation. In addition, she has acted as a Faculty Adjunct Professor for New River Community & Technical College and currently serves on the board of the WV Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing. Rachel also partners with Perkins School for the Blind in providing services through their iCanConnect Program.

She holds a Master's Degree in Rehabilitation Counseling from WVU and a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology as well. She completed in depth training in Deafness at the University of Tennessee. Rachel has expertise in coding, special fees and negotiations with vendors.

Rachel is the mother of two girls, McKenna and Deleah. She loves her home state of West Virginia and is a big fan of WVU football, basketball and baseball.